

Walking The Chester Walls

When our children were small, three boys and a girl, a day trip to Chester always gave us a whirl;
after parking the car at Northgate Arena
my wife used to say, 'Cheerio until dinnah.'

So, with two hours to kill and four kids to keep happy, the Old Walls of Chester proved a hit with their pappy;
up the steps by the clock we'd turn left or turn right,
and away we would go with our eyes shining bright.

The children would run, playing Romans and Jockeys, and climbing the walls like demented monkeys;
